

Coercion and Equality

`==` converts before it compares. `===` never converts. Use `===` and convert on purpose.

Rule of thumb: always `===`. When you DO want a conversion, write it out: `Number(x)`, `String(x)`, `Boolean(x)`.
The one accepted use of `==` is `x == null`, which is true for exactly null and undefined and nothing else.